

Truro and Penwith Colleges commitment to Investor in Careers

Principal

Truro and Penwith College aim for every student to fulfill their academic and personal potential so that a meaningful and economically successful transition into society occurs. Accessing careers provision at the right time ensures that plans can be set into motion and ambitions can be realised. We at the college pledge to provide the highest standards of CEIAG (careers education, information advice and guidance) and demonstrate this through our commitment to the Gatsby benchmarks and the Investor in Careers award

Martin Tucker

Director of Studies

As Director of Studies to Truro and Penwith College, I feel that the provision of impartial and timely CEIAG (careers education, information advice and guidance) is a vital component of a learner's journey. For all students regardless of subject area, the College provides a firm indication of opportunity, labour market information and the development of professional skills sets. We strive to equip students with a range of proficiencies that will stand them out as leading candidates in all occupational sectors or higher education study.

Cheryl Newton

Link Governor for Careers

As the careers link to the board it is my responsibility to maintain an up to date knowledge of all CEIAG developments; including how the college measures up against the Gatsby benchmarks, our employer engagement, how students connect with labour market information and our investor in careers status. We are happy with our compliance with the Government's careers strategy and ensure that there is a high-level careers system functioning at Truro and Penwith College. I am regularly updated on how this programme is delivered, evaluated and how it remains impartial and supportive to students' requirements.

Bob Crossland

Careers Leader

As the Careers Leader and Coordinator at Truro and Penwith College, I pledge to make the process of careers information and guidance one which inspires students to make informed career choices. I look to encourage curiosity, demonstrate career research techniques and have enthusiastic and meaningful conversations with students. I will ensure that the delivery of CEIAG at Truro and Penwith College is comprehensive, visible, accessible and provided to the highest standards.

Tim Moody