WELCOME AND INTRODUCTION

Welcome and Introduction to LLB (Hons) Law

The LLB (Hons) Law programme at Truro and Penwith College provide an opportunity for students to gain a full honours degree in Cornwall.

This programme has been designed to equip you with the skills and knowledge base required to work in your chosen specialism or to take advantage of other graduate opportunities. It is also a platform from which you can undertake additional academic, and in some instances professional, qualifications. The programme is validated by the University of Plymouth and underpinned by the QAA Quality Code.

This Programme Quality handbook contains important information including:

- The approved programme specification
- Module records

Note: the information in this handbook should be read in conjunction with: the University Centre Student Handbook (on SharePoint) which contains information on issues such as finance, student support, careers, learning resources and studying at University Centre Truro and Penwith; the University of Plymouth Student Handbook <https://www.plymouth.ac.uk/your-university/governance/student-handbook>; and your Teaching, Learning and Assessment Handbook available on SharePoint.

3. Accrediting Body(ies)

A new framework for qualification as a solicitor was introduced in 2021 with the introduction of a Solicitors' Qualifying Examination (SQE). Prior to this, students who wished to progress to the professional stage of training to become a solicitor through the completion of a Legal Practice Course were required to obtain a 'qualifying law degree'. This was an undergraduate law degree recognised by the Solicitors Regulation Authority (SRA) as the first stage of professional qualification.

The Solicitors Regulation Authority and the Bar Standards Board jointly approved providers of Qualifying Law Degrees and agreed new procedures for doing so from January 2014. Providers of QLDs were required to self-certify, with supporting documents, compliance with the Joint Statement and QAA standards and quality assurance requirements. The SRA has acted as administrator on behalf of both regulators, and has monitored self-certification documents.

The SQE has now replaced the former requirements of the 'qualifying law degree'. However, any student who began the process of qualifying as a solicitor prior to December 2021 will still be able to complete their training under the previous rules.

This LLB Honours programme satisfies the previous requirements of the 'qualifying law degree'. It complies with all the professional body requirements set by the Solicitors Regulation Authority prior to December 2021 and also the Bar Standards Board of England and Wales. It also complies with the QAA Subject Benchmark Statement for Law and incorporates the foundations of legal knowledge subjects (referred to as 'core subjects'). Graduates will therefore be able to proceed to the vocational stages of training to become solicitors or barristers upon completion.*

*Please note that this programme alone represents only part of what was previously known as a 'qualifying law degree'. Students are required to have completed the other 'foundations of legal knowledge' prior to enrolment or may be required to complete them as a condition of entry.

4. Distinctive Features of the Programme and the Student Experience

The LLB (Hons) Law programme at Truro and Penwith College provide an opportunity for students to gain a full honours degree in Cornwall. The programme has been designed to equip students with the skills and knowledge required to enter the legal profession or to take advantage of other graduate opportunities. It also creates a platform from which students can undertake additional academic, vocational or professional qualifications.

The LLB Law Programme at Truro and Penwith College has several distinctive features.

The programmes give students flexibility to enable them to reflect their academic preferences and also to be adaptable if their circumstances or aspirations change.

The LLB top-up programme has been designed for a diverse cohort of students meaning that parents, carers, those returning to study after a long gap or a different career, and students of all ages and backgrounds are welcome. We timetable classes to ensure that contact hours are compressed into just two days. This makes it easier for our students to work alongside their classes and to meet the demands of life outside employment and study.

Small class sizes and excellent student/teacher ratios are an attractive feature of programmes at Truro and Penwith College. Our teaching team includes experienced legal professionals and academics. The team is deeply and uniquely connected to the needs of aspiring lawyers in the County (and beyond), and well placed to support and tailor our students' professional development.

Our module content is industry led and employability skills are embedded throughout with excellent College and staff links to the local Profession. Although law is taught in an academic context there is a strong practical focus to the programme. Whilst the teaching of soft skills and selected legal practice skills will have been provided in previous study, this programme enables students to consolidate their experiences so far and to build upon them in a contextual and applied way. There is the opportunity to gain clinical legal and interdisciplinary experience by joining the Truro and Penwith College Community Think Tank where legal and social problems facing members of our community are discussed with students and staff from other relevant HE programmes. This has proved to have great impact and students have expressed how complementary their involvement with this project has been to their studies. Local pro-bono advice providers attend the college weekly with practical examples of real community issues that are currently being dealt with. Students are invited to contribute to interdisciplinary discussions about real clients and help to resolve the challenges that face them. Emphasis is sometimes given to particular areas of interest to our students like for example youth justice, domestic violence or youth offending. Experts from the legal profession routinely attend with examples of real case studies allowing students to develop their experience with specific and relevant context. This enables students who do not yet feel ready to enter the workplace, an opportunity to gain valuable employability skills and gain confidence. It also helps students to understand the importance of ethics and confidentiality when providing support to client. Local barristers and solicitors have attended at various times which has given our students invaluable networking opportunities in addition. There are also examples of students progressing into more formal volunteer and paid roles in the visiting organisations.

Students may also take advantage of established links with Citizens Advice Cornwall and/ or a unique relationship with the Dracaena Centre in Falmouth where students are invited to volunteer at either the community legal advice clinic or the Legal Help Desk at Truro Combined Court, both of which are connected to the Legal Advice Centre in London which provides invaluable exposure. Students may choose to take the 'Pro-Bono' module to formalise this aspect of their undergraduate experience which includes a reflective component where students can reflect on their development in the workplace.

7. Programme Aims

General Programme Aims

The LLB (Hons) Programme is a one-year full time or two-year part-time programme that tops up FdSc Law with Business or with Criminology and Criminal Justice to a qualifying LLB (Hons) Law degree that satisfies the requirements of the academic stage of training for the legal profession in England and Wales.

Students develop their knowledge and understanding of the Foundations of Legal Knowledge and have the opportunity to study a select number of modules which complement the needs of the local legal profession, whilst also providing students with sufficient breadth of knowledge to be able to progress elsewhere if preferred.

The development of generic and specific legal skills is embedded within the programme. The programme also provides opportunities for clinical legal experience. Graduates of the programme will have developed capabilities, skills and attributes required for employment in the legal profession and in other careers and will have demonstrated an ability to take responsibility for their own learning.

Specific Programme Aims

- A1 To develop students' knowledge and understanding of the law in line with the requirements set by the Joint Academic Stage Board for the academic stage of training for the legal profession
- A2 To develop students' knowledge and understanding of legal process and a range of substantive legal topics in areas complementary to the Foundations of Legal Knowledge
- A3 To encourage students to be able to apply law to problem solving in practical 'real life' scenarios
- A4 To assist students in becoming autonomous lifelong learners with a sense of study and enquiry and the skills to comprehend and contextualise developments in law
- A5 To foster the development of cognitive, personal (transferable) and practical skills, including specific legal and research skills in preparation for vocational legal training and/or employment in a range of legal and other professions

8. Programme Intended Learning Outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for participants to develop and demonstrate the general outcomes listed below. Whilst applications will be considered from students who have completed their foundational studies elsewhere, it is envisaged that most will have completed their FdSc Law with Business or FdSc Law with Criminology and Criminal Justice at Truro and Penwith College. This programme intends to build on the experience that students will have gained at levels 4 and 5 and aims to update, develop and consolidate skills gained so far.

The following referents have been used in drawing up the programme outcomes:

- The QAA Framework for Higher Education Qualifications
- The QAA Benchmark Statement for Law
- The Joint Statement of the Law Society and Bar Standards Board on the Completion of the Academic Stage¹

- 8.5.3. Interpret primary and secondary legal materials in terms of their organisation, presentation, and technical language

8.5.4. Develop competence in the following in the context of legal practice – advocacy, negotiating, drafting simple legal documents and letters, client counselling

8.5.5. Understand the need to identify the concerns and interests of a client (client care) and represent those concerns or interests with an understanding of some of the basic ethical concepts underlying legal practice, for example confidentiality and conflicts of interests

9. Admissions Criteria, including APCL, APEL and Disability Service arrangements

All applicants must have GCSE (or equivalent will be considered) Maths and English at Grade 4/C or above plus a relevant level 3 qualification.

Entry Requirements for LLB (Hons) Law
FdSc Law with Business (with no compensated Foundations of Legal Knowledge (FLK) modules ¹)	Pass or above at level 5
FdSc Law with Criminology and Criminal Justice (with no compensated Foundations of Legal Knowledge (FLK) modules ¹)
Students with compensated Foundations of Legal Knowledge (FLK) modules at level 4 or 5 will be considered on a case by case basis and advised following interview ²	Students with two compensated FLK modules may be enrolled after interview but while they can graduate with LLB it would not be considered a Qualifying Law Degree (QLD) ³
Other relevant level 5 qualifications (with no compensated Foundations of Legal Knowledge (FLK) modules ¹)	Considered on an individual basis through an interview process.
Work Experience	Considered on an individual basis through an interview process.
APEL / APCL possibilities	APEL/APCL will be considered as per University of Plymouth Regulations
Interview / Portfolio requirements	All students will be interviewed
Independent Safeguarding Agency (ISA) / Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) clearance required	Students are expected to purchase a current DBS, if required for placement.

During 2022/23, the LLB (Hons) Law programme (and students who enrolled onto FdSc Law prior to September 2021) are subject to the Solicitors Regulation Authority (SRA) and the Bar Standards Board requirements for a Qualifying Law Degree (QLD). The requirements only allow one compensation of the 7 Foundations of Legal Knowledge (FLK) subjects – Contract, Tort, Crime, Public, Land, Trusts, and EU at 35% or above and with agreed special circumstances.

² Interview process

Any student who wishes to enroll on the programme with a compensated module, will be considered on a case-by-case basis through interview to ensure they are able to make an informed decision. Applicants who have been compensated on FLK modules will be made aware of this at interview and will be formally notified of the implications of progressing with compensated modules and the potential impact of this on their progression options.

³ Qualifying Law Degree

If a student has already been compensated for a FLK subject at 35% or above at either level 4 or 5 they cannot be compensated in a level 6 FLK module on the LLB programme. If a student has already been compensated on a level 4 and level 5 FLK module they will not be able to gain a QLD. Students that have 2 compensated FLKs could still progress to and complete the level 6 year (without a QLD) and then take the Solicitors Qualifying Exam (SQE) separately to qualify as solicitor (this would not allow them to become a barrister).

10. Progression criteria for Final and Intermediate Awards

Upon completion of LLB (Hons) Law students may be suited to work in a variety of settings and these opportunities include work as a paralegal, solicitor apprentice, or other roles within the legal profession. Students may also progress to postgraduate study at University of Plymouth or to other institutions. Students are encouraged to discuss their options with their Personal Tutors and with staff in employability and careers services.
