FDSC LAW WITH BUSINESS

FdSc Law with Business at the University Centre Truro and Penwith provides an exciting opportunity for you to study degree-level law in Cornwall and has several distinctive features. These include excellent links with the University of Plymouth and a teaching team that includes both legal professionals and academics, providing exposure to a range of perspectives in the field. The inclusion of business modules adds another dimension to the course. The inter-disciplinary approach provides invaluable context which helps to deepen and focus understanding of the subject.

SMALL CLASS SIZES

Small class sizes at the University Centre lead to excellent student: teacher ratios and superior educational settings.

MEETING THE NEEDS OF EMPLOYERS

The College endeavours to meet the needs of the legal sector. We ensure that our content is industry led and we embed transferable employability skills throughout the programme.

ACCESSIBILITY AND DIVERSITY

We timetable our sessions to ensure that contact hours are compressed into just two days. This makes it easier for our students to work alongside their classes and to meet the demands of life outside of study.

WHY CHOOSE THIS COURSE?

You will develop a key understanding of the English legal system. In addition, you will explore a number of substantive topics such as human resource management, contract law and the law of torts. Law acts as the ‘major’ part of the course with business law as a specialism.

The Research Project allows students to study a chosen area in more depth, with previous topics including zero hours contracts in employment law and potential liability issues with advancing technology, such as driverless vehicles, drones and cybercrime.

The University Centre has extensive links to industry and practice and a plethora of opportunities for further study and work experience. The position of this course in the heart of Cornwall provides the very best platform for professional development.
