WHY CHOOSE THIS COURSE?

Early years practitioners play an important part in helping young children feel safe, included and ready to learn. This course introduces the knowledge and skills needed to contribute positively to children's care and development.

You will consider how to work respectfully with children, families and colleagues while following appropriate safeguarding and health and safety procedures.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

Learning may include classroom teaching, practical activities, case studies, research, discussions and work-based learning where required by the qualification. Indicative areas of learning: child development; play and learning; safeguarding; health, safety and wellbeing; equality and inclusion; communication; working with parents and colleagues; professional responsibilities. As the specification has not been released, we are unable to share units and assessment information. This will be available at interview. English and maths are important elements of a full-time college programme. Additional study may be required depending on your existing qualifications.

WHERE WILL IT TAKE ME?

Careers: Successful completion may support progression towards early years practitioner opportunities, subject to the qualification meeting the relevant occupational requirements and employer recruitment conditions. Progression: As this gives you a license to practice, progression will be towards employment or a level 3 apprenticeship.
